The Milwaukee Area Technical College (MATC) Suicide Prevention Project strives to prevent suicide ideation, attempts, and deaths among students by promoting mental wellness and help-seeking behaviors, to support at-risk groups across the College. To achieve this transformational change, the project design utilizes an integrated and coordinated approach. Efforts include: establishing documented evidence-based best practices and procedures; implementing nationally recognized prevention strategies; training staff; launching outreach and support to all students (while specifically targeting those at high-risk) – who are experiencing substance abuse, mental health problems, and life stressors which make them vulnerable as well; and creating a strong and beneficial network of community partners and resources. This program will be culturally broad and informed by direct input from students, community partners, faculty, and staff.
